As a longtime proponent of international education, one solution I see — and one that more and more universities are beginning to pursue — is to have students study abroad online. Students still want to learn about other cultures and see how people in other parts of the world approach different issues.

A new way to do study abroad during the COVID-19 pandemic ...

Students need to learn how to go beyond the basic facts: who, what, where and when and question the world around them. They should be able to explain their answers as to why they feel a certain way about a concept, posit changes they would make and explain why. Climbing the Bloom's Taxonomy ladder can help students do just that.
